MEMPHIS APPEAL.

THE SOVEREIGNTY OF THE STATES.

We conclude the review of Judge Hunter's pamphlet on Sovereignty, Allegiance and Secession.

After a full statement of the defects of the Articles of Confederation, and a very defective and imperfect one of the various measures, steps and occurrences that led to the assembling of the Convention of 1787, Judge Hunter, the author, broadly states that there were two parties in the Convention, one in favour of State Sovereignty, citizenship of States only, and allegiance to the States, and a Confederacy of independent States; and the other in favour of a central, consolidated Government, that should embody in itself all the attributes of a sovereign independent nation, with citizenship of the nation and allegiance to the central federal power. He truly states that the theories of the delegates were not affected by the latitude, North or South, from which they came, nor by any considerations connected with slavery: and that it was a contest between the large and small States.

The questions of citizenship and allegiance were little discussed, and that of State sovereignty only as a reason for insisting on equal representation in Congress.

Mr. Randolph of Virginia, as Judge Hunter states, proposed a plan for a National Government, almost as soon as the Convention assembled. Mr. Pinckney of South Carolina proposed another, but abandoned it and supported Randolph's, which was that a National Government ought to be established, consisting of a Supreme Legislature, Judiciary and Executive: the Legislature to consist of two Houses, one elected by the people of the respective States, and the other by the House so elected by the people: the States to be unequally represented, that is, according to the population of each State, in each branch.

Judge Hunter does not state that the plan also proposed that the Executive should be elected by the Legislature, and the Judges by the Upper House; and that the Legislature should have the power to veto laws injurious to the general interest, enacted by the States, and powers of legislation much more imperial than were finally conceded by the Constitution.

This plan was supported by Washington and Madison. Its purpose was to give all the powers of the Government to the large States, Massachusetts, Virginia and Pennsylvania. North and South Carolina and Georgia, to secure the continuance of the slave-trade, voted with these three States; and the struggle was between these and the smaller States, Maryland, Delaware, Connecticut, New Jersey and New Hampshire, with which New York sided.

The large States prevailed. The Convention determined on inequality of representation in both Houses, and the small States determined to withdraw from the Convention. This led, after the matter had been referred and re-referred, to committees of the whole and special committees, to a compromise, by which the equality of the States was recognized, by the provision that the States should be equally represented in the Senate. The word 'National' was then struck out, as no longer appropriate, because those in favor of a federal, federate or confederate government had prevailed, and the Virginia plan had been defeated.

Judge Hunter quotes at length from the report of Luther Martin, made to the Maryland Legislature, who naturally exaggerated the national features of the Constitution, and still more those of the 'plan,' which he had opposed, and which, he declared, was intended to destroy State sovereignty altogether. He had proposed to declare that the people of a State making war against the United States should not be deemed guilty of treason; but the Convention refused to adopt the provision. The victory of the small States was incomplete, because although the original plan was essentially changed by giving each State an equal voice in the Senate, all the details and language of the instrument were not accommodated to, or made to be harmonious with the changed nature of the plan. The defeated States conceded nothing that they could with success refuse, and endeavoured, of course, to make the victory of the small States of as small value as possible: but the abandonment of the word 'National' shows the extent of their defeat.

Mr. Martin argued that the compact between the States, entered into by the Articles of Confederation, could only be dissolved by the consent of every State: but the Convention acted without any regard to Rhode Island. The Confederation was to be perpetual, also, but that too was disregarded.

Notwithstanding the concessions thus wrung from the large States, and the abandonment of the word 'National,' Luther Martin, Patrick Henry and others, who were opposed to the adoption of the Constitution, represented it as establishing a consolidated Government and destroying State Sovereignty. Judge Hunter quotes from the speech of Mr. Henry in which he insisted that the Constitution was not a compact between the States, on account of the phrase "We, the People of the United States," in the preamble. We should suppose that Judge Hunter had heard arguments of counsel enough to know that the objections so taken, and the arguments of those who opposed the Constitution, do not at all prove that it was what they asserted it to be.

He says that these arguments and statements of Luther Martin and Patrick Henry and others show that the doctrine of State sovereignty was most unequivocally and forever condemned. But Mr. Madison, replying to Patrick Henry, expressly denied the correctness of that great man's construction of the Constitution; the Virginia Convention relied on his assurances; and the Constitution was ratified by that State and others with the distinct understanding that it did not annul State sovereignty, or establish a National Consolidated Government, but a federal one. The doctrine of "an independent sovereignty in the States as a principle to be perpetuated in the Government," was not condemned, but triumphed. Judge Hunter says that it was condemned when the Convention voted by a majority of one State, that "the right of suffrage in the first and second branches of the Congress ought not to be according to the rule established in the Articles of Confederation, but according to the whole number of white and other free citizens and inhabitants," etc. He says that "the Government was thus placed on the shoulders of the people, instead of upon the supposed sovereignty of the States, renouncing in direct and positive words the rule of State representation, as recognized in the Articles of Confederation; and the Constitution embodying that principle was reported and subsequently adopted."

Now Judge Hunter certainly knew that if that vote had stood unaltered, the Convention would have been dissolved; that the small States and New York refused to proceed unless it was rescinded or modified, and that, finally, after a fierce and prolonged struggle, it was decided that the principle should be abandoned, and representation in the upper branch should be equal. How much was thus conceded might be a question to be argued; but it was certainly an abandonment of the principle that the equality and sovereignty of the States were not to be recognized at all. It conceded the whole principle: it destroyed the National feature of the plan, and retained, in one branch, the federal character of the Government. The resolution asserted that representation ought not to be equal in either branch. That was according to the plan, and preserved its unity. The concession wrung from the large States subsequently, rescinded the resolution as to one branch, recognized the equality of the States, and conceded the principle contended for by the small States. The Delegates from the large States confessed this, and acknowledged it, with anger and mortification, as a defeat.

The language of Judge Hunter, which we have quoted, is therefore deceptive and unfair. The principle embodied in the resolution quoted by him was not embodied in the Constitution. The resolution was in part rescinded, and a contrary principle, that of the equality and sovereignty of the States, embodied in that instrument.

Judge Hunter says that the Constitution was not adopted by the States, in the form of a compact between them, but by the people of the United States in their capacity as citizens of the United States, uncontrolled and unaided by any action on the part of the States. To prove this, he relies on the arguments and objections of Henry and Martin, counsel, as it were, using every argument within their reach to defeat the Constitution.

The Constitution was adopted by the States. The people of each State, in Convention, gave the separate assent of the State. It was to be, and it became, in force, as soon as it had been ratified by nine States. Conventions were required, because it was thought that ratification by the Legislatures would not, for want of authority so to act for the States, be ratification by the States.

No one will deny that the amendments to the Constitution were made by the States, and not by the people of the United States at large. Three-fourths of the States may now amend it, against the will of an immense majority of the people of all. The amendments adopted have become part of the Constitution. Is that instrument, then, the work, in part, of the people of the United States, and in part of the States themselves as Sovereignties? Did one power make and does another add to and diminish by amendment? Such a proposition is eminently absurd.

That the powers of the General Government were greatly enlarged by the Constitution in no way affects this question. The States, by compact between themselves, established a political corporation, called the United States, in which they were the corporators, having unequal voices in one branch of the Directory or Legislature, and an equal voice each in the other branch. They could confer on the corporation, and did confer on it, such powers as they pleased. All the Acts of the Corporation are their acts. They act by means of it. So long as a State continues to be a corporator, the laws enacted for all, by the corporate agent of all, are supreme for all and binding on the people of all. Treason against the nation so constituted of and by the States is so, because it is treason against each respectively. Allegiance is but the owing of obedience, and the action of the State, in forming the corporation or nation has bound its citizens to obey the laws enacted by herself jointly with the other States. The States have not set a superior over themselves, any more than an ordinary corporation is the superior of the shareholders. In law, the corporation is distinct from the States: in fact, they are the corporation; its property is their property, its laws, its debts, its contracts, its treaties, are theirs.

If a State, having thus become a co-operator, can for sufficient cause withdraw by rescinding the compact, then all these consequences of its union with the others cease. That it can not withdraw in an extreme case, when there is no other remedy left, and the Constitution and its own rights are grossly violated, Judge Hunter indeed asserts, but does not attempt to prove. It would be far more satisfactory, if he would condescend to consider the arguments on the other side, which he does not even notice.

As an attempt "to supply a great public want," as an exhaustive or even able defence of Webster's theory of the Constitution and Government, the pamphlet is a failure. The defects of its logic are as great and glaring as its assumptions are bold without being original. No one who had never before heard of the subject would guess, from anything contained in it, that its propositions in regard to the Constitution had ever been considered and discussed by any one, in the way of denial or refutation; and yet we may certainly be allowed to say that arguments have been made against them that it would require all the intellect and ability of men greater than Judge Hunter to refute.

The argument that there is no citizenship of a State, but only of the United States, because the Constitution provides that Representatives and Senators must have been for a certain number of years citizens of the United States, and the President a native-born citizen of the United States, loses all its weight, and the proposition is ignobly exploded, when we read the provision that citizens of one State are entitled to all the privileges and immunities of citizens of other States.

The Constitution empowers Congress to establish a uniform rule of naturalization; not to pass laws for such naturalization without regard to the States. In our opinion, the 'rule' was intended to be prescribed for the States to follow; and it was never meant that any one should become a citizen of the United States, nor can any one lawfully become so, unless by becoming a citizen of some State. The practice has been otherwise; so that if all the States were to agree to dissolve the Union, there would still remain a large body of citizens of the United States, not citizens of any State; and when the States had all entered into new combinations, the United States would still continue to exist, composed of that body of men, and be the proprietor of all the property of the nation; and the States and their people, perhaps, guilty of treason for seceding from the Union.

Finally the learned jurist, venturing upon a new subject, in which he might naturally be supposed to be at home, declares that the right of eminent domain is "one of the indispensable attributes of a sovereign nation."

We wonder that Judge Hunter should not know that the right of eminent domain is in every State in the Union, to take land for public purposes. To have learned this, he need not have looked into many books. He would have found it so held in Harding v. Goodlett, 3 Yerg. 41, by the Supreme Court of Tennessee, and by the Supreme Courts of almost every other State in the Union.

And if His Honour had looked at the case of Pollard's Lessee v. Hagan, 3 Howard 212, in the Supreme Court of the United States, he would have found it decided by that Court that the United States never had or held any municipal sovereignty, jurisdiction, or right of eminent domain, in the old States, and none in the territory out of which Alabama or any other of the new States was formed, except for temporary purposes. "The United States," the Court said, "have no constitutional capacity to exercise municipal jurisdiction, sovereignty, or eminent domain, within the limits of a State, or elsewhere, except in the cases in which it is expressly granted." This decision was affirmed in Goodtitle v. Kibbe, 9 Howard 471, and Doe v. Beebe, 13 Howard 25.

If, therefore, Judge Hunter is right in saying that the right of eminent domain is one of the essential attributes of sovereignty, the United States are not sovereign, because they do not possess it within the States, at all, except by concession from the particular States.

On the whole, Judge Hunter will hardly have convinced any one that he had shed any new light on the questions which he has discussed, or that the Supreme Court of the United States erred when it said, in Wheaton & Donaldson v. Peters, 8 Peters 658, "The Federal Government is composed of twenty-four sovereign and independent States."

THE RADICAL TICKET.

The New York Herald says:

The Republican ticket, headed by Gen. Grant, seconded by Colfax, is a strong ticket; the platform upon which they are placed is conveniently evasive and withal as elastic as India rubber. It means, on the great financial issue, greenbacks or gold, as Congress may hereafter determine; and it means a qualified or universal negro suffrage, according to the market to be supplied. How the Democracy are to fight this ticket and platform it is for their wise heads to determine between this and the 4th of July.

The ticket is like a tadpole. Grant is the head and belly and Colfax is the tail. The relative dimensions of the two are very much as between those parts of the incipient frog.

Radical Prophecies.

Impeachment was the issue and conviction was to carry with it success for the Chicago ticket. Said old Thad. Stevens: "If the President is not convicted the Radical candidate will carry but two Northern States—Massachusetts and V[illegible] neys— [illegible] waite, [illegible] papers [illegible] ate of [illegible] Andre[illegible] the Ho[illegible] the ex[illegible] ginia, [illegible] given [illegible] States [illegible] pents t[illegible] succes[illegible] World.

For President of the United States,

ANDREW JOHNSON,

OF TENNESSEE.

Subject only to the decision of the National Democratic Conservative Convention.]

DEMOCRATIC STATE CONVENTION.

By direction of the Democratic Central Committee, a State Convention is called, to assemble at the city of Nashville, on the 9th day of June, 1868, for the purpose of appointing delegates to attend the National Democratic Convention, which will meet at the city of New York, on the 4th day of July next.

The people of the different counties throughout the State, are requested to hold County Conventions and appoint delegates to represent them in said State Convention.

All persons opposed to the policy of the Radical party are cordially invited to participate.

Democratic and Conservative newspapers of the State are requested to publish this call.

By order of the Central Committee,
THOS. R. JENNINGS, Chm'n.
L. D. WALKER, Sec'y.

IS IT NOT TRUE?

The Day Book says this in reference to the effort in the South to coax freedmen to vote for "Old Massa:" It seems that in every case where the Conservatives expected to get nigger votes, they failed, and the Mongrels have carried the day. Of course they have done so, and ought to do so, "and if there are men who fancy themselves Democrats so stupid and so base as to appeal to niggers, they will be rewarded exactly as they have been rewarded in south Carolina, Georgia, etc. Alabama, with more to contend with than any other State, defeated the obscene and devilish wretches who sought to force a mongrel Constitution on that State in the only way possible to do such a thing—that is, by refusing absolutely to recognize negroes as an element of political society.

We do not accept the appointment of Delegate to the Democratic Convention at Nashville. We requested that our name should not be placed on the list of Delegates, and hoped it would not be,—the reasons for this being entirely personal, and not in the least arising from dissatisfaction at the movement, of which, on the contrary, we entirely approve. We think that other men can better serve the cause, both at Nashville and New York, than ourselves. It is of little use to defy prejudices, and of less to defy misrepresentations.

We should be in favour of leaving the representatives of the Northern States free to select such candidates as they, who have to fight the battle, may deem most likely to win success. Between Hancock and Pendleton, we regard the former as most likely to be victorious: but we should acquiesce in the choice of either, and be more than satisfied with the names of HANCOCK and PENDLETON, for the Presidency and Vice-Presidency. Radical malignity can find nothing in Hancock's record, with which to appeal to prejudice and passion. His private character is above reproach, his abilities are unquestionable, his devotion to the Constitution, his regard for the laws, his respect for the civil tribunals conclusively proven. Nevertheless, if he shall not be selected, we shall cheerfully acquiesce in the choice of the Conservative Delegates from the Northern States.

We have but one thing at heart, as to the action of the Convention at Nashville. This is, that it shall distinctly announce its unqualified opposition to negro suffrage, in any shape and on any terms. It would be unworthy of the Conservatives of Tennessee to leave this matter in doubt; and we are quite certain that they will not do so.

RADICAL MEANNESS.

The Missouri Democrat, the St. Louis Radical, which it should be called, sneers at the cold clay of the venerable ex-President, whose ashes were to be returned to the dust yesterday. It says: "The old public functionary, alias James Buchanan, is dead." The Chicago Tribune and other Radical journals give a parting kick at the deceased, which would have been infamous were he alive, but is doubly so since he is defenceless in his grave. Remorseless scullions, who glut on the garbage of personal abuse, and defame and decry all who do not cater to their gross appetites and unscrupulous purposes. Mr. Buchanan's offence was that he obeyed and protected the Constitution, and if he erred it was in his leniency to such miscreants who were seeking to embroil the people in a war with the unhallowed object of overthrowing the Constitution and subverting the Government.

Curious Case and Dreadful Effects of Poisoning by Mulberries.

We learn from the Huntsville Independent of the 2d, that in the northern part of that county, quite a number of persons have been poisoned by eating mulberries. Two boys at our informant's house were poisoned, and he told us that he understood that six boys, three white and three negroes, were found dead under a mulberry tree. It is supposed that the locusts have poisoned the mulberries. We would warn the people to beware of eating these berries, as they are doubtless poisoned.

Methodist Conference.

The Chicago Times of the 3d says:

After a four weeks' session, the Methodist Conference, on Tuesday, adjourned sine die. With a limited number of exceptions, the acts of the Conference have been in the right direction. It has done much toward closing up the breach with the South; and has given shape to the efforts to make the civil organization of the Church more Democratic than it is now. Taken in all, the Conference has been a gathering of more than average ability. It has largely minded its own business; and, in a majority of its aspects, has made itself a model after which a good many other religious bodies can copy with profit.

—They are luxuriating in watermelons at New Orleans, the first having been received from Donaldsonville.

—Andrew Hero, Sr., a Swede by birth, and some time connected with the Commercial Bulletin, died recently in New Orleans.

THE BEST UNDER THE CIRCUMSTANCES.

In the brief conversation reported by the correspondent of the Louisville Journal, between President Johnson and an Indiana member of Congress, which we reproduced yesterday, there is one thing worthy of note. We allude to the apology for appointing Schofield Secretary of War—that it was the best, under the circumstances, that could be done. This is showing a concession to a refractory and contumacious Senate, unworthy of the office of the President. He should have selected just such "constitutional advisers" as he desired, and let the Senate take the responsibility of rejecting such nominations, as it did that of Mr. Stanbery. To do otherwise, is to yield to the superiority of the Senate, and sink the dignity of a co-ordinate branch of the Government.

We are reluctant to believe that "Hobson's choice" was the only consideration for selecting Gen. Schofield as Secretary of War; and are as unwilling to prejudge him in that capacity before he shall have shown himself unequal to the situation. As one of the military satraps he may not have come up to public expectation, as fully as Gen. Hancock, and won for himself imperishable renown for his cultivation of "the arts of peace" within his jurisdiction, while others were fanning the embers to keep alive the lingering sparks of bitterness; but the causes of complaint did not evoke a clamorous objurgation, although he was sufficiently subordinate in carrying out the policy of his superior officers. As the head of the Department of which he was the instrument, it remains to be seen how far he will harmonize in the administration of the Government, on a legitimate and constitutional basis, with the object of healing all animosities, and restoring the country to lasting peace, and, with it, prosperity.

We apprehend the reported conversation was a jocular one, and slightly colored in passing through the alembic of the writer to flavor his gossip, and must be taken with some allowance. It is our desire, and we are not alone, that the President in re-establishing his Cabinet should not consult the taste of the Senate, but his own judgment and the good of the country. In such case the best under the circumstances can always be secured.

"My Policy."

Grant, in his letter of acceptance, says: "It is impossible—or at least it is improper—to indicate a policy, in times like the present." This means that at present, he has no policy—not even the shreds and patches of the so-called platform, which, like the nimble nigger, "now he does, and now he don't" accept. He will wait for events to direct him.

TENNESSEE.

—At Nashville, on Tuesday evening, a little son of Chris. Vanpel fell from the roof of a three story house. No bones were broken, but the extent of internal injuries could not be ascertained. He belonged to the Turners, and was a promising gymnast.

—The death of Jacob Hyman, a well known Hebrew citizen of Nashville, is announced in the Gazette of the 3d inst. —The death of Mrs. Mary Ann Austin, in her sixty-ninth year, a most estimable lady, is announced in the Nashville papers.

—The Hartsville Vidette, in speaking of the infamous act ordering legal advertisements to be published in certain Radical papers, says: "We notice in one of our Fayetteville exchanges, that His Honor, Judge Steele, has decided in the Chancery Court at Fayetteville, that "sales may be advertised by hand-bills, and not in a newspaper;" and if the principle of law announced by Chancellor Steele is correct, then the act of the Legislature is null and void, and the lawyers, clerks and sheriffs throughout the State should test the thing legally, and refuse to comply with it."

—The Knoxville Herald says: We understand that several persons were sunstruck at the Cemetery in North Knoxville on Sunday, while in attendance on the funerals there.

—The entire family of Mr. James Ray, of Roane county, were poisoned a few days since by eating the wild parsnip, mistaking it for angelica. A little daughter died, and others were in a critical condition.

—Speaking of Gov. Brownlow's health, the Knoxville Press and Herald of the 2d inst., says: It may be proper to state that the citizens of Knoxville, in general, know as little, from day to day, of Gov. Brownlow's real condition as do the citizens of Nashville or San Francisco. It is generally understood, however, that he is in quite a feeble condition, though not in extremis.

—The Rome Courier of the 2d, says: "The planters in this county will commence harvesting this week. The indications are that the yield will not be large in proportion to the breadth of land sown, but of excellent quality. The price in this market will open at probably $2 a bushel, but the expectation is that it will soon decline. We would again suggest that parties will subserve their own interests by getting their wheat into market as soon as practicable."

—Mr. Hollis, the manager of a pile driver at Pensacola, was killed last Tuesday, the rammer glancing from the top of the pile and striking him in the face and chest.

CONGRESSIONAL

[redacted]

To give effect to the land grants made to Nevada.

The Senate bill to amend the act for the relief of the inhabitants of cities and towns on the public lands, and the Senate amendments to the Arkansas bill, were non-concurred in.

On motion of Stevens of Pennsylvania, from the Committee of Conference, the House went into a Committee of the Whole on the Tax bill.

Miller spoke briefly in its support, and Maynard and Allison followed on the same side, the latter favoring a reduction of the tax on distilled spirits to 75 or 60 cents; and said as to tobacco the Committee on Ways and Means would not insist on the measure proposed, but would allow the present vote to remain. He then referred to the argument made by that Committee not to report the Tariff bill, remarking that there was no occasion for a general revision of the tariff, as the manufacturing interests of the country were at present in a prosperous condition. The yield of coal this year, he said, is larger than ever before, and the manufacture of pig iron was never more prosperous, in fact none of the great manufacturing interests would suffer by a failure to modify the tariff.

Myers asked whether the Committee on Ways and Means intended to insist on the $10 on cigars.

Allison replied that the committee proposed to leave the tax, as it now is, at 15.

The general debate closed at 3 o'clock, and the committee proceeded to consider the bill in detail.

Blaine, of Maine, moved to strike out the first section, which constitutes the internal revenue department, and spoke in favor of his proposition.

Logan opposed the amendment and replied to Blaine.

Judd moved to amend the section by providing that the Commissioner shall be subject to removal or suspension only with the advice and consent of the Senate.

Wood opposed the amendment, as did Schenck.

Beck opposed the first section, arguing that under the Constitution Congress had no right to create a department and declare who should fill it.

Maynard replying, cited the Department of Agriculture, as in point.

Nicholson stated that in that case, the appointment was made after the passage of the act, and the President nominated the same gentleman who had been the head of the bureau, but the form of a new nomination and confirmation had to be observed.

Blair took the same view, and urged that if the President involuntarily, after the passage of the bill, ignored Rallings and nominated a commissioner, it would prevent a very serious question, whether he had legal right to do so.

Judd replied to that question, and argued that Congress had the right to impose additional duties upon an officer of the Government, and that was all the section proposed to do.

Logan, Schenck and others also replied to the objections to the section, claiming that there was nothing in it which militated with the Constitutional provision in regard to appointments.

Garfield supported a modification of the section by striking out the part which makes a separate department.

Farnsworth opposed the section, when the House took a recess.

At the evening session Farnsworth, Blaine and Poland opposed, and Schenck advocated the section.

Poland moved to amend it by providing that the President should, by and with the advice and consent of the Sen ate, appoint the head of the Department.

Judd's amendment was agreed to.

Garfield moved to amend the section by making it read, "that the office of Commissioner of Internal Revenue be continued." Whereupon Blaine withdrew his motion to strike out the section, and after a debate the vote was taken on Garfield's amendment, resulting ayes, 47; nays, 46.

There being no quorum, the roll was called and ninety-five members answered to their names, and the vote was again taken, resulting ayes 46, nays 49 The chair voted in the negative, making a quorum, and the amendment was rejected.

Jones moved to amend by providing that the Commissioner shall be appointed with the advice and consent of the Senate. Rejected.

Farnsworth then moved to strike out the section, which was rejected, only 35 voting aye.

Selye offered an amendment to the third section that no female clerks be employed except the wives, widows or daughters of soldiers who served in the last war in the army of the United States, which was rejected.

TO THE PUBLIC.

The Greatest Discovery Known to the World in Medicine.

THE
EUREKA LIFE-BLOOD ELIXIR

HAS at last made its way into this country, after having been in use in the old world for so many years, and especially in China. The celebrated alchemist and chemist, Dr. Hepsdam, of Pekin, China, has at last consented to his great CHINESE REMEDY being introduced on this continent, and has established a few wholesale agencies for the purpose of supplying all druggists throughout the towns and cities of our country. This great Blood Medicine has performed cures (the most astonishing), where every other remedy known in Materia Medica has most signally failed.

It is no Humbug
—OR—
QUACK NOSTRUM,

But is a preparation which has been brought out after many long years of the deepest research, aided by the greatest chemical science and skill that could be brought to bear in its production, we therefore place it wholly

UPON ITS OWN MERITS,

ASKING THE INVALID OR AFFLICTED TO

TRY IT ONCE

To be fully convinced, as its effects are instantaneous from the first dose taken, entering at once into the blood and penetrating every pore of the whole body, driving out every impurity from the whole system, and creating instead PURE LIFE BLOOD; hence its name.

For Sale by all Druggists. ma28 tf

THANKS, to Felix Cross, Esq., of the Southern Express Company, for late papers from all points.

FIRE.—An alarm of fire was sounded yesterday at about quarter past one o'clock. The engines were out promptly, but after traveling a square or two found out that the alarm was false.

PICNIC.—A lot of old cits—merchants along Front Row—treated themselves and their wives and children to a picnic yesterday. We suppose they had a good time, as they have very little else to do at present.

NOTICE.—Mr. H. G. Hollenberg has returned from a short and successful professional trip to the country, and desires orders hereafter for tuning and repairing Pianos to be left at F. Kaizenbach's, and F. H. Clark's jewelry store, or at 250 Second street, where they will receive prompt attention.

AGRICULTURAL AND INDUSTRIAL CLUB.—We are requested by a correspondent to notice a meeting of this Club, called at White's Station, on the Memphis and Charleston Railroad, for 10 o'clock a.m. on the 6th inst. The call is signed by many prominent citizens, and they hope to have a full attendance, as matters of importance are to be discussed. Address Richard, Appeal office.

I. O. B. B. GRAND PICNIC.—The Independent Order of Benj Berith will give a picnic next Thursday, at the James Park, in aid of the Orphan Asylum of the order, which is now being established at Cleveland, Ohio. It will be a grand affair, and will, no doubt, be liberally patronised by our Hebrew fellow citizens, who are ever foremost in acts of real charity.

SAD ACCIDENT.—Mr. J. T. Leguere, a young man well known in Memphis, was drowned yesterday evening in Hopefield Lake, while fishing. He had been with a party of friends but had left them, and was in a pirogue or dugout, which turned over, and being unable to swim, he was drowned before they could come to his assistance. Mr. Leguere's place of business was on the corner of Third and Poplar. He was unmarried, but leaves a mother, brother and sister, and a host of friends to bemoan his untimely fate.

RACES.—At the Memphis Racing Association course, this, Friday afternoon at 4 o'clock, the following matches:

First Match—$100 aside—play or pay.
G. W. Sidger ent. g. g. Grey George, to buggy, Sidger to drive.
J. S. Lail ent. blk. h. Black Sam, to harness, (Black Sam to go his gaits.)
Mile heats, best 3 in 5, to rule.

Second Match—Open to gentlemen's driving horses, for a fine gold watch, best 2 in 3, mile heats, owners to drive. Entry fixed on the track.

AN EXCITING DAY.—Bargain seekers will leave house and home and squalling babies, just because they can get cheap goods. As an evidence of this, yesterday the store of Messrs. Menken Brothers was crowded by them, from morn till late at night, buying remnants and the thousand cheap goods which they offer. They have six thousand remnants of every description of goods, and judging from their price we would advise every one to go there.

THE BENEFIT TO-NIGHT.—The box office for the sale of tickets for Manager Thompson's benefit was open yesterday afternoon from two to five o'clock, and from the rush upon it, we are led to believe that there will be a full house in the New Memphis to-night, to greet our amateur histrionics. As before stated, the play is to be Guy Mannering, with Mrs. Thompson as "Meg Merrites," and a number of the first young ladies and gentlemen of the city in the cast. The rehearsals of the piece have been numerous and thorough, and we guarantee the public a delightful evening.

THE TOURNAMENT.—The gentlemen who have undertaken the management of the grand tournament, assembled last evening and appointed the following officers: President, Gen. Jas. R. Chalmers; Secretary, Col. M. Mageveny, Jr.; Treasurer, Capt. Wm. H. Paesmore. The supervisory committees were appointed, which will be announced with the general programme in the Sunday morning papers. The grounds are in complete order, and with a permit from Capt. Geo. Mellersh, any Knight can practice at the rings at pleasure. It has been determined that the length of lance shall be nine feet, and none will be permitted to enter the lists with one of greater or less proportions.

KIMBERLING SPRINGS.—In our column of new advertisements will be found a notice of the opening of the above springs to the public. They are situated about twenty-six miles from Wytheville, on the Virginia and Tennessee railroad, in Bland county, Va. Though never before opened for public accommodation, they have been visited for several years, especially last season, by parties furnishing their own supplies. The region round about these springs is said to be beautiful in the extreme, the country well wooded and stocked with game, and abounding in streams whose waters teem with fish—a perfect paradise for the sportsman.

The waters bear the highest testimonials from resident and visiting physicians for their efficacy in all diseases in which mineral waters are generally found to be of benefit.

RENCONTER WITH NEGRO BURGLARS.

A Bloody Affray—Capt. Perry and Officer White, of the Second District Police, Severely Wounded.

Statement of Private Watchman Telford.

We give below the statement of private watchman Telford in regard to the attempted burglary and terrible shooting affray on Wednesday night. It will be seen it differs very materially from all other statements published:

STATEMENT OF MR. TELFORD.

Capt. Perry was up in keno room getting lunch at a quarter to 12 o'clock; the negro boy, Henry, was standing at the window and saw two men go into the side door of Price & Yeatman; he went to Capt. Perry and told him, and he got up from lunch, came down the steps alone, and met me (Telford) at the foot of the steps; he told me to come and go with him; never said where he was going, and walked to the alley and turned down the alley until he got to the side door of Price & Yeatman; he pushed the door open, stepped inside, struck a match, and asked who was there; we were within six feet of the office door, and saw two negroes come out of the office door, each with a navy repeater in his hand; we stepped back outside the door as they advanced, and as Capt. Perry stepped outside one of them snapped a pistol at him, but it did not explode; Capt. Perry then drew his pistol, and poking it around the door fired, and the negro fired about the same time, and Capt. Perry fell, saying: "I am killed; follow them up—kill them both;" then I fired, but the negro at whom I aimed was so close to me that he knocked my pistol up, and my ball went over his shoulder; he poked his pistol into my face and fired, the flash burning me a little on the side of my neck; I then picked up Capt. Perry's pistol, and they shot three or four shots at me while I was trying to get hold of it, and then started down the alley toward Union street, running some fifty or sixty yards, and then I fired at them twice with Capt Perry's pistol, one of the balls taking effect in the right side of Bedford's neck, as I have since learned, from his own testimony. As they turned into Union street, joined by a third from the alley, Barbiere and Wright met them and they pursued them down Union street, opening a pretty lively fire on them, which they returned with interest, wounding Wright in the cap of the right knee. When they turned the corner of Main and Union private watchman Calahan opened fire on them, and shot three times at them. Here, too, Charlie Kuhnholz and Crupper opened on them, and followed them down Main street to the alley between Gayoso and Union, and thence down the alley toward Second where, reaching the back yard of Nick Malatesta's, Bedford pushed open the gate and got in. Mrs. Malatesta heard the shots and had gone to the window and saw a man he entered. She called her husband, who armed himself and ordered him to surrender. He fell to the ground, at this, saying, "oh, I'm dead," Mr. Malatesta standing over him with a pistol, until the police came and took him in charge. On being taken up by the police, he gave his name as Bedford. At the station house he gave the names of four negroes who were his companions, three of whom stayed outside while he and another went in. The police went to the houses of those whose names he gave, and arrested them, and they are now in jail.

CONDITION OF CAPT. PERRY AND THE OTHER WOUNDED.

The four negroes arrested yesterday morning as being of the party who shot Capt. Perry and Officer Wright, of the Second District police night before last, were all fully identified yesterday by Bedford, the wounded negro, who swore to them, each and separately, as having been his accomplices. Their names are Sam Moody, Henderson Ford, Henry Jones and Willis Mitchell. They were yesterday removed from Causey street station house to Adams street, where they now are.

Capt. Perry's condition yesterday evening at eight o'clock was considered hopeless. The attendant physicians, Drs. Kimbro and White, have made the following diagnosis of his wounds: The ball entered his right arm between the diner and the radius, passed the entire length of these two bones, and passed at the lower portion of the elbow, glancing it struck the center of the sixth right) rib, penetrated the plura and went into the right lobe of the liver where it now remains. His bleeding had mostly been internally. The doctors state that the ball could not have entered the lung, as he had coughed up no blood.

Policeman Wright was yesterday evening doing very well, and will soon be out. The wounded burglar, Henderson, is pronounced out of danger, and will, we hope, live to be hung, as he and his associates richly deserve.

Although at present writing there is seemingly no chance under heaven that Capt. Perry can live through the night—indeed, one of the attendant physicians stated that he would not last till midnight—we cannot refrain from expressing still a lingering hope that he may recover and be spared long to fill the place which he has held with so much honor to himself and service to the public. Come what will, he is a brave and fearless officer, who, if he dies from this wound, dies like a hero, doing his duty.

ALMOST SHOT.

Terrific Affray between a Nigger Constable, a Detective, and two Italians.

Assault with Intent.

Yesterday afternoon, a nigger Constable was sent to serve a writ of replevin on two Italians, named Frank Gassarango and John Gatti, who keep an establishment on the levee at the foot of Jefferson street. The Italians, however, rallied in force and drove him away, and he made for the headquarters of the Metropolitan Police and laid complaint before Col. Beaumont, who ordered McCune, alias "Curly," to accompany him and arrest the offenders. On arriving at the scene, "Curly" and "Kinky" found the Italians prepared and drawn up in line of battle, ready to receive them. Gassarango had a double-barreled shotgun, and Gatti a handful of peanuts, both of which were discharged at "Curly" and "Kinky" about the same time. A ball from the shotgun grazed Curly's windpipe, and came very near severing his jugular. It, however, did no more than letting a little blood, while the peanuts (burst all to pieces) fell harmless from "Kinky's" skull. After a short but desperate conflict, in which marmelade, candy, peanuts, oranges and bananas suffered severely, and in which "Curly" discharged one of his "derringers" into the floor, and the other would not go off, the two brigands were captured. They were marched off, under charge of "Kinky," to the Adams street station, where they now are. "Curly" and "Kinky" are the heroes of the hour.

DELIBERATE MURDER.

Awful Effects of Conjugal Infidelity.

An Injured Husband Brains the Destroyer of his Happiness, with an Axe, while he is Asleep.

A Talk with the Murderer.

Yesterday morning, about six o'clock, another one of those sickening deeds of blood which we are daily and almost hourly called upon to chronicle, took place in our city. The daily and hourly recurrence of these hideous episodes in every day life of Memphis has somewhat blunted our sensibilities, and we do not look upon them with that horror which they should inspire; but in this case the murder was so cold blooded and deliberate, and the attendant circumstances so sensational in their character, that it becomes one of more than ordinary interest.

A laboring man, hard-working, honest, and hitherto of blameless reputation, John Linneban by name, who lives on the Randolph road, about a quarter of a mile beyond Wolf river, yesterday morning drove an ax into the skull of Matt Dwyre, killing him instantly, under the following circumstances, as detailed to us by Linnehan, then a prisoner in Adams street station. For convenience, we will give the affair, near as possible, in his own words:

"I married my wife about three years ago, and lived very pleasantly with her until about two months since, when this man Dwyre came to board at my house. She was a widow when I married her, and had a son about twelve years old. With this boy Dwyre generally slept, and through him I learned of the first thing that led me to suspect that there was anything wrong between his mother and Dwyre. About six weeks ago I went out to Collierville to do a job of ditching, but when I got there, found it was given to some one else, and I returned to town that same night. On going into the house, I saw Dwyre leave my wife's room. I went in and accused her of acting wrong with him. She bitterly denied it, and we had a quarrel, and from that time on we had no peace in my own house. Dwyre bossed everybody and everything, and always went around with a repeater, so that I was afraid of my life.

"On Wednesday evening, I went to the house with two friends of mine, and we had something to drink. On going into my wife's room suddenly, I found Dwyre in there with her, and as soon as he saw me he knocked me down and kicked me out of the room, calling me a — and saying he would kill me yet. My friends made me go to bed, and yesterday morning when I awoke, I got to thinking about Dwyre's treatment of me, and I determined to kill him. I got right up and went to the yard and got the ax—a common old wood ax—and went first to my wife's room; he was not there, and then I went to her son's room, where he generally slept.

"Here I found him in bed with the boy, both asleep; I walked up to the bed and dealt him one blow with the edge of the ax, driving it into and splitting his skull open. He did not even groan. I drew the ax out, and stood by him a minute to see if he would move or speak, but finding him dead, I laid the ax down, washed myself, put on a clean shirt, and came down town to deliver myself up to the police. The first one I met I delivered myself to him. On the road down I told a good many people what I had done. The policeman brought me here (Adams street station) and locked me up. That is all—the truth, and nothing but the truth. I killed him—I am glad I did it, and would do it again if I had the same cause."

Linnehan is an Irishman, about forty years old, small in stature, with an honest, Irish face. His wife, he informs us, is also Irish, and of about the same age, or perhaps a little older. Dwyre, the murdered man was a Captain in the 15th Tennessee regiment, C. S. A., and is represented as having been a very good soldier.

POLICE ITEMS.

—Martin Mahon was placed under bonds yesterday by 'Squire Black to keep the peace toward Mollie Huchinson, a fair but frail one, with whom he had been living. A few days ago Mahon had Mollie arrested for stealing a shawl, and failed to make good his charge. In trying to convict Mollie, he criminated himself, and Justice Black had him arrested on a bench warrant for seduction and adultery. He was placed under $2000 bonds to answer to the Criminal Court on this charge, and yesterday he made a countercharge against Mollie of adultery, ejo. The case is "warry mixed," and is a most knotty one for Justice Black to settle. It comes up again to-day.

—Mrs. Sherry, arrested on charge of stealing a shawl, was discharged.

—There were fourteen arrests reported up to eight o'clock last night, at the Causey station. Ten of them were State cases, and were sent before the various justices' courts.

—The case of Brusa and Charlie Williams will be settled to-day by 'Squire Hall.

—'Squire Griffith had not a single State case yesterday. A wonderful fact.

—There were ten arrests up to eight o'clock last night, at the Adams street station; several under very heavy charges—one for murder, two for assault with intent to kill, and four for burglary.

RIVER MATTERS.

WEATHER AND RIVERS.

Weather warm and clear. The river continues to recede rapidly—having fallen altogether, according to the engineer of Capt. Tom Duffin's "waterworks," not less than ten feet in all. This will give a daily fall of about two feet. At Cairo the Ohio is falling about twelve inches in twenty-four hours. The latest telegraphic columns. The Mississippi is falling at St. Louis and above, with nine feet out to Cairo. The Missouri is rising rapidly, but not enough so to cause any uneasiness. The Arkansas was falling when the Caldwell came out, but the late rains may have caused a swell in that fickle stream.

MISCELLANEOUS.

Capt. John D. Elliott is pleased at last to come out in his own name and confess that he is at the bottom of the conspiracy to prevent the introduction of a regular packet in the Vicksburg trade, that will stay there and accommodate the trade, because forsooth he thinks there are advantages to be obtained and he is unwilling that another should enjoy them. He has a boat that he has chopped around to find something for which she was fit, and failing, like the dog in the manger, growls over the bone that he cannot himself enjoy. He expresses a willingness to put the Des Arc in the trade provided Capt. Davis will give him the mail contract. When she was in the trade, why did he not keep her there, and make some liberal arrangement to carry the mail? If we are not very much at fault, the statement that Capt. John Elliott "never had the contract for the Vicksburg mail" is a mere quibble, like the one denying being the author of "Old Merchants'" effusions. We are credibly informed that the contract was made by Capt. Wm. Elliott, who, it is also alleged, was "owner" of the Des Arc at the time—at least the books of the Customhouse are said to show that fact. But we have from the first only wanted to show that jealous parties wished to prevent a boat from entering the trade unless that boat were their own. Capt. Elliott's card in the Ledger proves it. We have, however, no quarrel with him. We merely want a Vicksburg boat, and care not who puts her in. Has Capt. E. stuck to any trade with tenacity enough to gain the confidence of our merchants?

The Liberty, Capt. Jim Rice, will be found at the landing this morning, and leaves again for White river on Saturday at 5 p.m., carrying the United States mail. Harry and Sharpe are clerks.

The Belle St. Louis, Capt. Zeigler, with Ad Storm in the office, is the regular St. Louis packet for Saturday.

The Rubicon, Capt. Blake, is the regular Vicksburg and bends United States mail packet for Saturday evening.

The swift Dexter, Capt. Montgomery, will pass up to-day for Cairo and Louisville, at 5 p.m.

Capt. John Ford returned with the tug Nettie Jones, on Wednesday evening, from a trip to Duvall's Bluff, where she went with a tow of coal. She made the run back in the unprecedentedly short time of twenty-nine hours.

The case of A. S. Mansfield, the millionaire, Government and cotton speculator, the alleged barratrist, the proprietor of the Republican, part proprietor of the R. E. Lee, and embryo United States Senator, is exciting attention in New Orleans. He was brought before United States Commissioner Weller, charged with having procured the destruction of the "Shooting Star," whereby he got $130,000 insurance. The Captain swears Mansfield paid him $10,000 to do it. Mansfield says "persecution," "black mail," "extortion," "malice." Commissioner Weller, in summing up, said that "in consideration of the heinousness of the crime, and the wealth of the accused, he should be obliged to put the bail high; so he put it at the enormous amount of $20,000! for an alleged offense, which involves $130,000 in cash, and the life of the accused, if proved on him. Wm. M. Hall, the agent of the Underwriters, is out in a card in the N. O. Times, in which he says he "will pay $1000 to the Widows' and Orphans' fund of New Orleans, if he cannot prove to the satisfaction of twelve disinterested, respectable merchants of New Orleans, that A. S. Mansfield did pay to the Captain of the Shooting Star $10,000 to wreck her."

The following are the newly elected officers of the New Orleans Steamboat Captains' Association: President, Capt. A. C. Goddin, formerly of the Bayou Sara Mail Packet Company; Secretary, C. T. Reeder, formerly of the Louisville and New Orleans trade; Treasurer, R. W. Adams, Esq., of Sinnott & Adams; Superintendent, Capt. Geo. H. Kirk, formerly of the Ouachita river trade.

Our Latest Improved
NEW SCALE PIANO-FORTE.
GROVESTEEN & CO.,
499 Broadway, N. Y.,

THESE instruments, after the most flattering testimonials from the first Pianists in the country, who, at our solicitation, have tested them in the severest manner possible, have been announced THE FINEST SQUARE PIANO-FORTE MADE IN THE WORLD.
It has always been our policy, during the thirty-six years that we have manufactured Pianos, twelve thousand of which are now in use in the United States and Europe, to make the finest instrument at the lowest cost. Our superior facilities enable us to offer them from one to two hundred dollars less than any other First Class House.
The tone of these instruments are remarkable for their peculiar Sweetness and Great Brilliancy, never losing their quality when forced to their utmost capacity. The lower register retains its full volume and power, does not destroy the middle and upper registers by mingling with them in disagreeable confusion, the refined beauty of tone being equally delightful to the unpracticed and to the most cultivated ear.
They are an entirely new style of Piano, finished in the most superb manner, with four Brilround corners front and back, heavily carved legs and Lyre Serpentine Base richly moulded, and each instrument is fully warranted five years. sep6 d&wly

THE NATIONAL
COMPANY.

A new enterprise, to be known as the National Telegraph Company, has been organized with valuable franchises conferred by a recent act of Congress for the purpose of establishing Trunk Lines of Telegraphs on all the principal railroads and mail routes in the United States. The stock is to be issued upon the same principle as that of the Merchant's Union Express Company, which recently commenced operations. The design is to interest the entire business community in the enterprise. This is done, not so much to dispose of the stock as it is to secure the business of the country through which the lines pass.
The Capital is to be

$10,000,000,

In 100,000 Shares, of the par value of

$100 PER SHARE,

But the actual amount to be paid in cash i

$35 Per Share,

And this amount is to be paid as follows: One per cent. of the par at the time of subscribing, and no more, until the entire capital has been subscribed, and then on calls to be made by the Board of Directors; instalments not to exceed five per cent. per month. When thirty-five per cent. of the par value of the shares has been paid, certificates of stock will be issued This will give the company a paid up

CASH CAPITAL OF $3,500,000,

Which will be sufficient to duplicate lines to all or nearly all the paying points reached by the present monopoly.
The present Telegraph Companies of the country have been consolidated into one huge monopoly, and are now earning over SIX MILLIONS OF DOLLARS per year, or over one hundred per cent. on the actual cost of their lines, their present capital having been watered over ONE THOUSAND per cent.
THE NATIONAL TELEGRAPH COMPANY have a recognition from the United States Government of the importance of their enterprise, with a grant of the most valuable franchises ever conferred upon a telegraph company. No competing line has ever had the right now granted by Congress to this company to construct and operate lines over every RAILROAD and MAIL ROUTE in the United States. The position of this company differs from that of any company ever before organized. The question of the RIGHT OF WAY IS FOREVER SETTLED.
The stockholders of this company cannot be sold out or TRANSFERRED to any other company. The act of Congress under which this company has been organized, prohibits any transfer of the franchises granted.

CALLS---HOW TO BE MADE.

One per cent. of the Stock will be required on subscribing, and subsequent calls, not to exceed five per cent. per month, will be made by the Board of Directors, from time to time, as may be necessary, to supply funds to construct and equip the lines; but no calls will be made after the one per cent. is paid, until the ENTIRE CAPITAL STOCK shall have been subscribed.

ACTUAL CAPITAL REQUIRED

The Company confidently believe that thirty-five per cent. of the Capital Stock will construct and fully equip

35,000 MILES OF WIRE,

Which will connect all the commercial centers and important places in the United States This opinion rests upon the most reliable estimates and responsible offers to construct and equip the lines.
The National Telegraph Company is organized under the Laws of the State of New York and franchises conferred by an act of Congress, approved July 24, 1866.

Of Cleveland, Ohio.

COMPANY'S OFFICE:

Nos. 64 and 66 Broadway, N. Y.

A limited amount of the capital stock of this company is allotted to this locality, and those having an opportunity, and subscribing, will be placed upon equal terms with its corporators, and will secure like interests in all franchises which have accrued, or may hereafter accrue to the company from any and all sources.
Stock may now be subscribed in this company at the office of

MEMPHIS APPEAL

From Harper's Weekly.]

HARVESTS ON HISTORIC FIELDS.

Three years ago the battle's breath
Swept fiery hot across the plain;
And steadily the reaper Death,
With cruel carnage in his train,
Marched through the serried ranks that stood
Unwavering, and cut them down;
While field and farm, and hill and wood
Grew dark beneath the battle's frown.

The cannon thundered in their wrath,
The musket rang with volleys there;
The loud shell cut its trackless path,
And burst with fury in the air;
And thickly by the trodden way,
In dyke and field, by level rows
Of trampled corn, Death's harvest lay—
Friend close by friend, and foe with foes.

To-day another harvest stands
Where once Death trod the bleeding plain,
Ripe for the reaper's ready hands
That bind and thresh the golden grain.
Afar the sheltered farm-house sleeps,
Embowered in shade; while o'er the mound,
With pitying growth the wild vine creeps,
Where rifles rang with deadly sound.

Up from her covert starts the quail,
As, chanting on her hidden nest,
The farmer lad with noisy hail
That thrills the cheeks the speckled breast.
And low and sweet the echoes call;
While from the blue sky over head,
In mellow radiance, flooding all,
The golden light of peace is shed.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Noon Dispatches.

BROWNSVILLE, June 4, 1 p.m.—The following cases were decided in the Supreme Court this morning: Palmer vs. Waggener, decision affirmed; Bartlett vs. Wilkerson, decision reversed. The Court was engaged on the case of Dickinson vs. Only—number twenty-four—at the time of adjournment.

WASHINGTON, June 3.—Owing to a fire at the gas works to-night the gas all over the city, except in the Capitol, was suddenly turned off to prevent explosion. The House of Representatives had a supply from an extensive reservoir.

Owing to the bitterness of feeling among a certain class of politicians and the recent disturbances, apprehensions were freely expressed that there would be a riot to-night, and preparations were accordingly made to suppress the disorder; but the city is generally quiet, nothing having occurred to create excitement, except a quarrel between two white men, one of whom was shot and the other is dead.

SAVANNAH, June 4.—A duel was fought yesterday between two colored men, in which one of the parties was killed.

The fire Tuesday night, on Bay street, destroyed property to the amount of $20,000; fully insured.

CHARLESTON, June 4.—The following letter has been received by a gentleman in Columbia, in this State:

Dear Sir: I have your letter in reference to the removal of your political disabilities. I am not sure that the time has yet come to make exceptions to our general policy in individual cases. To do so would be to open the door to innumerable applications; and once open, it would be difficult to shut. I hope to meet such cases as yours by some general enactment; and as soon as the condition of the country will permit, I shall be the first to advocate the removal of all disabilities under which you labor.
Yours truly,
CHARLES SUMNER.
[Signed]

ST. LOUIS, June 4.—The steamer Belle St. Louis has departed for Memphis. The river is still falling slowly here. The Missouri is rising rapidly. The Illinois and Upper Mississippi are stationary. The weather is clear and rather cool.

CINCINNATI, June 4.—The river is in good condition for business and rising slowly. Accounts from points above report the smaller streams swelling. The Minnesota has departed for Memphis with a fair trip.

EVANSVILLE, June 4.—The steamer Goldfisch was burned at the boneyard, at the lower end of the city, about ten o'clock last night. She belonged to Capt. William Mann, of Osceola, was valued at $16,000 and insured for $6000.

LONDON, June 3.—The Herald's special official dispatches from Gen. Napier state that he was still evacuating Abyssinia, the column having passed Senafee, one of the last posts on the route. Gen. Napier reports that the rainy season had set in with its usual violence and disastrous consequences to the inhabitants of low lands, the flood running through the Sooroo defile, a vast mountain gorge, was already in such volume that six hundred natives had been drowned.

FINANCIAL AND COMMERCIAL.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY APPEAL,
MEMPHIS, June 4, 1868.

The offerings of exchange to-day were more liberal than usual. Rates remain the same as on yesterday.

Gold opened in New York at 139¾, and closed at 140c. We quote buying at 138½ to 139c; selling at 140c.

There has been no movement in City Scrip; buying, nominally, at 72 to 73c; selling at 75 to 78c, as to amount.

County Warrants are dull at 58 to 60c buying; selling at 63 to 65c.

Police Scrip firm at 84 to 85c buying; selling at 88 to 90c.

There is an active demand for City Bonds at 50c, but no sellers at that figure; $18,000 was sold to-day at 51c, with the July coupons detached.

The great Credit Mobilier of Paris, the universal lending company of Europe, which was a sort of Pawnbroker's shop for millionaires, exploded last year, as everybody knows, and blew up thousands of confiding shareholders very badly. But the injured have persevered in tracking out the causes of trouble, and a suit against the directors who controlled the company at the time of its greatest fame and success has just been decided, in which those gentlemen are adjudged to have "watered" the stock, by the aid of flowery and inexact statements of its condition, and so to have made themselves personally responsible for all the money paid in for the new issue—120,000 shares, at 516 65 francs; total, more than $17,000,000 in our present currency, to be paid by eight men among the leading bankers of Paris. Some of them can pay their share without seriously feeling it, but two of them, gentlemen whose only fault was not to watch their associates closely enough, are what European bankers call "poor"—that is, two millions apiece is a noticeable loss to them.

The amount of money abstracted for the last five or six years from the productive industry of the country would have exhausted any other nation in the world. In 1867, the National Government collected by taxation, no less than $490,000,000. Of this, $179,000,000 were derived from duties on foreign goods, and the balance, $311,000,000, from direct taxes and internal revenue. All this is exclusive of the large amount absorbed by municipal and State governments and for local purposes.

The Liverpool cotton market was quiet but steady at the opening to-day; Uplands, 11¼d; Orleans, 11¼d. There was no change at noon, and at the close Uplands remained the same, but Orleans had declined to 11¼d. Sales 8000 bales.

The New York market opened quiet but steady—Middlings, 31c; and closed without any change to note. Sales 800 bales.

A few sales occurred here during the day, but none of the four or five lists now upon the market containing from forty to fifty and sixty bales were sold. Holders are asking 29½ to 30c for Middlings—an offer of the inside figure for fifty bales was refused. The four small lots sold changed hands upon a basis of 29¾ for Middlings, though some possibly sold higher and some lower. We quote as follows:

Ordinary	25 @25¼
Good Ordinary	27 @27½
Low Middling	28½@29
Middling	30 @—
Strict Middling	30 @—
